

Abstract

5 A new method, which builds the models at m -th step directly from models at the initial step, is provided to minimize the storage and calculation. The method therefore merges the $M \times N$ transformations into a single transformation. The merge guarantees the exactness of the transformations and make it possible for recognizers on mobile devices to have adaptation capability.

10

For review only